Blast Okinawa Sub Base

A bomb from an American carrier plane lands near a small Jap ship at a midget sub and PT-boat base in a sheltered cove on Okinawa where American troops, who landed yesterday, are driving across the island to split it in two. Three airfileds have already been captured by the fighting Tenth Army troops.

YD Sweeps Into Fulda

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, April 2 (AP)—The American Third Army drove today into Fulda and Kassel, 165 miles from Berlin, and within 198 miles of the Russian lines, while other Allied armies grimly mopped up 40,000 to 100,000 of Germany's best troops, trapped in the encircled Ruhr.

Gen. Bradley sent tank columns far beyond both Kassel and Fulda, one armored column reaching within 155 miles of Berlin at a point three miles northwest of Eisenach at the northwest edge of the famous Thungarian forest.

There, Lt. Gen. Patton's Army was 95 miles from Leipzig and closest to the Russian front in its swift power drive to bisect the Reich and bar access of troops in the north from the Bavarian Alps, where Hitler may be preparing for his last stand.

It was the 26th (Yankee) Division which entered the outskirts of Fulda in the path blazed by the 11th Armored Division.

Supreme headquarters said all of Field Marshal von Model's Army Goup B, strongest left on the western front and containing the last tank army opposing Gen. Eisenhower's nine armies charging east of the Rhine, had been caught in the Ruhr trap, closed yesterday by the First and Ninth armies.

Even as the fate of this whole fighting force was sealed, Gen. Eisenhower's communique, in an unusual revelation of the course of the developing campaign, declared flatly the cleanup "will not preclude the advance of Allied armored columns farther into Germany."

That swift advance was well under way.

Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army had armor less than 160 miles fro mthe battered capital of Germany. Lt. Gen. Patch had Seventh Army tanks within 45 miles of the Nazi congress city of Nuernberg where be could cut one of the two main trunk lines from Berlin through Munish to the Brenner Pass.

Third Army tanks raced to within three miles of Eisenach and 96 miles of Leipzig in their eastward drive across the waist of Germany.

The security blackout still veiled the surging advances of the British Second Army toward North German ports, but Berlin said the Tommies had advanced more than 35 miles past the Westphalian capital of Muenster to a point south of Bielefeld. There the British would be 200 miles from Berlin, 128 miles southwest of Hamburg and 62 miles southwest of Hannover.

The German communique reported fighting in the Teutoburg forest "on both sides of Bielefeld" and along the Dutch frontier between the lower Rhine and Enschede, 106 miles from Wilhelmshaven and 98 from Bremen.

Strong attacks near Muenster were declared repelled. The American Ninth was reported officially by the foe to be fighting fiercely for the Rhur industrial city of Recklinghausen. Allied ad-

WESTERN FRONT—The Ruhr trap is closed and British forces are reported as attacking Muenster while other Allied units have swept 35 miles beyond. Kassel and Fulda were entered by Yankee Division forces while the First Army drove north into the Ruhr. The Seventh is 45 miles from Nuernberg and expanding its drive after linking up with the French.

Move on Okinawa Fleet Base

By ELMONT WAITE

GUAM, April 2 (AP)—The thousands of U. S. 10th Army infantrymen and Marines who invaded strategic Okinawa—325 miles from Japan proper Easter morning at little cost, found the going still surprisingly easy as they pushed eastward toward the important Nakagusuku bay fleet anchorage.

The Yanks went ashore on the west coast and quickly captured two airfields and a dozen virtually deserted villages and towns.

By nightfall they had carved out a beachhead three miles deep at points on an isthmus eight miles wide, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

Front reports said a third airstrip — unidentified — also was seized.

The Yank invaders walked inland from the beaches 200 yards or more without once having to seek shelter.

Tough fighting is expected, however, as the Japanese reorganize for defense.

The enemy, surprised by invasion of Okinawa's western shore near Katena after a 10-day bombing and bombardment of his eastern shore defenses, was expected to fight fanatically from prepared positions, probaby in the low hills in the center of the island. Estimates of Japanese strength on Okinawa range from 60,000 to 100,000 troops.

Size of the Yank invasion force was not announced but it, too, numbered perhaps 100,000.

"Final, decisive victory is assured," Nimitz declared as he read his communique announcing the invasion. But he warned that Japan itself must be conquered.

Capture of Okinawa will afford airfields for intensified aerial neutralization of the empire's home airfields and continued devastation of its industrial centers.

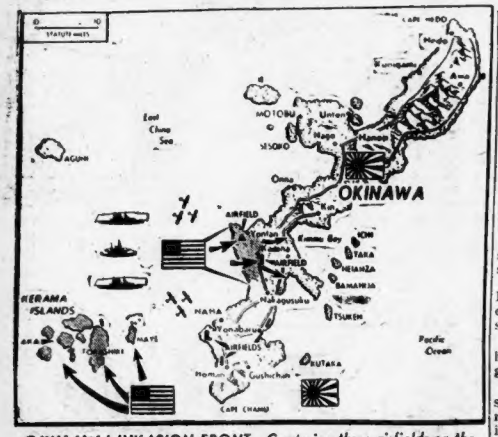
"It is difficult to overemphasize the importance of this operation," said Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., commander of the new 10th Army. This command comprises the 24th Army Corps and the Marine Third Amphibious Corps, made up of probably six divisions—all veterans of Pacific fighting.

Buckner watched the landings from the flagship of V. Adm. Turner, commander of the amphibious operation in which 1400 ships participated.

"From the standpoint of the offensive, this is the most valuable island yet invaded," he told Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland.

Okinawa is only 325 miles southwest of Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands; 365 northeast of Formosa, 750 from Luzon and 400 from the China coast.

Nakagusuku bay would afford the Pacific fleet a new advanced base. Virtual control of the east China sea and a much tighter blockade around Japan's sea lanes to the southwest also are in prospect.



OKINAWA INVASION FRONT—Capturing three airfields on the western side of Okinawa Island, more than 100,000 U. S. 10th Army troops stormed inland from their beachhead in a move to split the island in two and capture the Nakagusuku Bay area. Artillery fire from U. S. gun positions on Maye and Tokashiki Islands, captured recently, aided the invaders to land without serious losses.

Out of the Blue

WITH U. S. NINTH ARMY, April 1 (AP)—Lt. William Emerick of North Collins, N. Y., was piloting a Piper Cub for artillery observer Capt. James I. Mabin, Chickasha, Okla., when they were pounced on by German planes.

No match for the Nazi fighter planes, they bailed out, and when they scrambled down from a tree, found 20 German soldiers waiting to surrender.

Allied Warships Blast San Remo

ROME, April 2 (AP) — Allied warships raked German positions along the French-Italian frontier, including the harbor of San Remo, as the long lull on the Italian land front continued, Allied headquarters announced today.

In Italy, enemy light artillery fire fell along the Fifth Army front and the Germans kept the skies alight with flares on the right flank throughout the night, apparently fearful of action there.

South of Bologna there were patrol skirmishes.

Reds Drive Within 20 Miles of Vienna

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, April 2 (AP)—Russian forces battled for Neudorfl, three miles east of the Messerschmitt assembly center of Wiener Neustadt in Austria today.

Other Soviet columns smashed within 20 miles of Vienna and drove hard against Germans in the Bratislava gap.

(London dispatches said the Bratislava radio went silent and unconfirmed reports said the Russians had made a 13-mile dash to the outskirts of that capital of the puppet state of Slovakia, less than 30 miles east of Vienna.)

Spearheads of Marshal Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army pounded gap fortifications from the south between captured Sopron on the Neuseidler See and Wiener Neustadt, and pushed into the Lietha mountains farther north.

East of Bratislava, troops of Marshal Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army were moving down the Karpaty mountains west of Trnava.

More than 32,150 Nazi prisoners surrendered in the past 24 hours.

Jap Woman Soldiers Battle

WITH 24TH ARMY CORPS, Okinawa, April 2 (INS)—Eleven Japanese women, dressed in Jap uniforms complete with helmets and carrying grenades and one light machine-gun and four rifles, attacked a 24th Corps artillery unit behind the lines during the night in what is believed to be the first instance of the use of women in ground operations in the Pacific.

Five men accompanied the women in the attack. Doughboys opened fire and killed all except six women. Of the six three committed suicide by exploding their grenades. The other three were wounded and one was dying today.

The scene of the attack was in rough, gullied terrain inland from the Sunabe area.

The women's ages were estimated at 28 to 40. It was believed probable they hid in caves until we took the area rather than infiltrate as civilians. Civilians have been taken from hiding places and put in stockades and hundreds of them are now in American custody.

AMG Lets Nazi Cops Rule City

The long distance between Third Army front and press communications base explains the transmission delay in Lake's eyewitness stories of war. It takes eight hours to get back with copy and another eight to get to the front again.

By AUSTEN LAKE

WORMS, Germany, March 28 (Delayed)—One needs more legs than a spider, more eyes than a fly to cover Gen. Patton's fluid war. The war practically runs away from you, and before the story on hand is written, the Army has squirted another 12 miles and the frenzied chase continues twixt front and copy base. The GI's name for it is "Rat Race." Heaven knows where we'll be tomorrow, so time out while I breathe.

This is a story about the capture of Worms that I've been trying to write for a week, its belly gripe born of a creepy night spent in Worms. "Worms" is a proper descriptive noun. "Worms" suggests maggots, which suggests a corpse, which in turn suggests the city—or what is left of it, consisting of a few civilians.

There were plenty of American soldiers bivouacked in suburban areas, like occupying Kenmore sq. in relation to downtown Boston, but there weren't many GIs in Worms.

What warmed the cockles of my indignation was the presence of German Reich political Himmler cops in salad green uniforms with tinsel trimmings, patrolling the streets. I might add that I have grown used to that sight by this time, for it is now a universal custom to put Kraut flatfeet back on the job (without pistols).

But at the moment, having just come from Mainz where police and firemen fought with Wehrmacht infantry and probably killed some of our doughs, they typified a vicious enemy.

So I hunted up the only Americans in town and discovered 20 more Nazi cops as smug as a kennel of blood hounds.

"How come?" I asked a young U. S. lieutenant. He didn't know. Just that the cops had been combed out by the Army and discharged from prisoner stockades. They held the technical rank of civilians anyway. It wasn't his business; the military government branch took charge of that and they hadn't arrived so . . . he shrugged.

That night, for want of a better spot to sleep, I holed up in the house where they lived. They were a cordial crew. The candlelight hospitality was good, the food fair and the Moselle wine sufficient.

So before yawning myself to bed I said: "I suppose the infantry are patrolling the town." No, they were not. The infantry was minding its own business on the outer fringe of town. So I asked: "Well, who is guarding the joint?" You guessed it. The 30-odd Himmler police.

Because of their superior acquaintance with the city setup, they were allowed to choose their own sentry posts running down to the Rhine.

These beefy pug-panned apes, all of whom had to pass the stern

His Generals Tell Hitler: 'You Quit or Army Will'

LONDON, April 2 (INS)—The German language clandestine Radio Atlantic was said in a Reuter's Stockholm dispatch today to have reported that Hitler has been handed an ultimatum by the German high command that unless he and other Nazi leaders resign within 48 hours, the German army will completely cease resistance.

(From Paris, Blue Network correspondent Herbert Clark broadcast reports from neutral sources that a combine of German leaders has issued an ultimatum to Hitler demanding German surrender within 48 hours. The German group was said to include military officers, financial leaders and "even some Nazis.")

According to the reports, which Reuters noted were totally unconfirmed and originated from a frequently unreliable source, the German high command decided to renounce its leadership of the German armed forces and to send messages to all field commanders giving them the option to surrender if they saw fit if the Nazis refused to relinquish power.

Radio Atlantic, supposedly an anti-Nazi underground transmitter, added that this decision was taken at a council of war reported to have been held at Hitler's Berchtesgaden headquarters on Friday and Saturday.

The reports said that during Saturday's session Hitler maintained his refusal to abdicate and open the way for surrender even though his generals once again stressed the impossibility of further resistance.

Britain V-Bomb Menace Ended?

By HENRY B. JAMESON

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—Hope that Great Britain's long months of V-bomb terror raids have ended sprang up in London today.

An official announcement said not a vengeance weapon had landed anywhere in England since Thursday night and additional reports poured in of Nazi troop withdrawals from northern Holland, location of V-bomb launching sites.

It was considered too early for an official declaration that Britons will no longer experience the tremendous explosions of rockets and flying bombs with which the German high command had planned to wipe London off the map. But it was considered significant that in the period between dawn Friday and dawn Saturday was the first raidless 24 hours since Feb. 26.

For more than nine months London and southern England communities have been subjected to a V-weapon bombardment more terrorizing than the blitz. It cost thousands of lives and millions of dollars in property damage but gained the Nazis little of military value.

Captured documents and investigation of many of the captured launching sites has disclosed that Hitler visualized hurling 10,000 V-bombs at London every 24 hours. Plans for the all-out assault were reported 80 per cent completed when the Allies stormed the Normandy beaches last June.

One French factory alone was going into production of flying bombs at the rate of 2000 a week the day the Allies landed, according to a London account. Batteries of projectors for eight-inch quick-firing rockets were found along the French coast near Calais, but the Germans never were able to use them.

The Germans planned London should be wiped off the map by last Fall.

Alert Melrose Hello Girl Plugs In on 2-Alarm Fire

Miss Mary Hogan, Melrose night telephone operator, uttered the conventional "Number, please," in response to a light on her board at 3:30 this morning.

There was no answer. She heard the unmistakable crackle of flames. She called the fire department.

The alert telephone operator had discovered a fire of two-alarm proportions at the office of the Melrose Highlands Taxi Co. and a paint shop on the second floor in Marvin rd.

Melrose, Malden and Wakefield apparatus got it under control only after damage of $3500 to the small building, scorching the branch postoffice and the Veterans of Foreign Wars home and driving Mr. and Mrs. Garnet W. Doughty from their smoke-filled dwelling nearby.

Joseph Manning of Upham st., an employe of the taxi company, explained the mystery of the light that appeared on the telephone operator's board.

He had been asleep in the office. The fire had gained such headway when he awoke, to his peril he could do nothing but flee the building. There wasn't time to telephone.

So he knocked the telephone over in his flight and hoped there would be someone like Miss Hogan on the night switchboard.

Byrnes Resigns; Vinson Named War Mobilizer

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN

WASHINGTON, April 2 (INS)—The White House announced today the resignation of James F. Byrnes, director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. In submitting his resignation, Byrnes said: "I think VE-Day is not far distant."

President Roosevelt sent to the Senate the name of Judge Fred M. Vinson, federal loan administrator, to succeed Byrnes in the war mobilization job.

In his letter of resignation, Byrnes reminded the President he had twice before indicated his desire to resign—last June, when Congress was considering the bill to expand the Office of War Mobilization to include operations of reconversion, and again in November, when he told the President he would accepted the newly-expanded job only until VE-Day.

In making the announcement today, White House Secy. Jonathan Daniels pointed out that Byrnes' letter of resignation was dated March 24, the date when Allied troops moved in force across the Rhine.

The official disclosure was held up, however, until Byrnes had submitted his report yesterday to the President and Congress.

President Roosevelt, in accepting Byrnes resignation, spoke of "having no other alternative."

Daniels explained Byrnes would remain at his desk in Washington as long as necessary to transfer his duties to Vinson, assuming the latter is confirmed by the Senate.

Daniels said he did not know who would be appointed to fill Vinson's job as federal loan administrator.

A spokesman for Byrnes declared he had "absolutely no plans," and Byrnes had been irritated some weeks ago when it was reported he would join a million-dollar law firm in Washington.

Byrnes told the President in his letter of resignation:

"I think V-E Day is not far distant. My knowledge of the nature of the work now confronting the office causes me to conclude I should not remain longer. The office has already embarked upon the development of a program of reconversion. I have organized committees composed of representatives of the various agencies which have been at work for some time developing the program."

Gen. Ike's Problem: Huge Quantities of Nazi Booty

By LEON PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 2 (INS)—It was disclosed today Gen. Eisenhower has unsuccessfully asked the War and State departments to send him a special commission to dispose of the tremendous quantities of German supplies and equipment falling into the hands of Allied armies.

So much equipment of all kinds has been taken—food, coal, salt, sulphur, locomotives, trolley cars, electrical supplies, etc.—that supreme headquarters is encumbered with it.

Eisenhower's problem is twofold:

1—He must decide which of several claimants—France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, or his own forces—can make the best use of an article.

2—He must make only temporary disposition of German property to avoid interfering with the work of the permanent reparations commission in Moscow.

When officials of the War and State departments met to create the requested commission, however, they disagreed as to powers it should have.

The War Department insisted it should have powers of decision, to relieve SHEAF of that burden. But the State Department shied away from this course as being fraught with complications.

The clash between the two viewpoints delayed creation of a commission. After a period which one official described as "too long," it was decided not to send a commission, but to throw the task back into the lap of Gen. Eisenhower.

Slain Woman Buried; Hunt Trio

HAVERHILL, April 2—While friends and relatives gathered for funeral services for Miss Bertha M. Stevens, 64-year-old former Haverhill school committee president, detectives pressed a search for three Lawrence youths wanted for questioning in her murder.

The funeral was scheduled from the First Church of Christ, Bradford, with burial in Spring Cove Cemetery, Andover. Police said the Lawrence trio was wanted because the youths had arrived in this city last Thursday night about the time Miss Stevens was slain, and had departed on the same bus about half an hour later.

Search for them was directed by Detective Richard J. Griffin, who is working out of the office on Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg. Griffin said he was hopeful the youths might clear up some puzzling angles in the investigation.

A bus driver for the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway recalled having taken the trio to Haverhill on the murder night. He said they arrived in that city at 10:05 p. m. and returned with him on the same bus at 10:40 p. m.

According to medical authorities Miss Stevens received the injuries which resulted in her death about 10:25 p. m. She lingered, without regaining consciousness, at the Hale Hospital until 11:27 p. m. Death was due to a fractured skull caused when she struck her head on the sidewalk, after being felled by a blow from a man's fist.

The driver said he would be able to identify the youths who rode on his bus. Two of them wore no hats, he said, and the third wore a hat and jacket of distinctive appearance.

Armory Looted Of Guns, Bullets

Thieves broke into the State Armory in Broadway, Chelsea, early this morning and stole two Thompson submachine guns of .45 caliber, four .32 Colt automatics on .38 frames, a Winchester 12-gauge hammerless riot gun, and a large quantity of ammunition to fit them.

A four-pronged investigation was launched by the FBI, Military Intelligence, state detectives and Chelsea police.

The only clues left behind were a jimmy and two pairs of gloves.

The robbery was discovered by Armorer William Robinson, who found the thieves had entered by smashing a screen and a window.

Police disclosed the invaders had ignored valuable and easily carried things like binoculars and comeras, and even money.

"All they wanted were guns, certain types of guns, and the ammunition to use them," said Lt. Inspr. John Kirbv of the Chelsea force. "They weren't kids or amateurs."

Fearing the robbery was staged by a mob planning a payroll holdup at some big war plant or other industrial enterprise, state police teletyped a warning throughout Massachusetts. Also notified were payroll transportation companies.

The guns and ammunition were federal property, held available for the 9th Co., 23d Regiment, State Guard.

Suicide Hides Greenfield Murder Motive

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 2—Motive for the murder of Mrs. Fay Kimball Goering, 25-year-old mother, shot and killed in her Greenfield, Mass., home last Friday night, remained a mystery today despite the confession left by Harland H. Pratt, 29, following his dramatic suicide in the New Haven railroad police office here.

Pratt, medically discharged World War II veteran, who took his life with the murder weapon, a German automatic pistol he had brought back from North Africa, left a confession note.

Dated March 31, the note read: "On the night of March 30 I, Harland H. Pratt, shot and killed Mrs. Fay R. Goiring at approximately 11:20 p. m. I drove my car, a gray 1939 Ford sedan with red wheels, Massachusetts registration 262646, north through Gill and then to Mt. Hermon, Brattleboro, Keene, Manchester, Nashua and then to Lowell.

"There I took a train to Boston and a taxi from the North to the South Station where I bought a paper and learned that Mrs. Goiring had died. Then I took the 7:05 a. m. train to Providence and my bag is checked in one of the steel lockers at the New Haven station. My car is parked in the parking area at the Lowell, Mass., station. The key of the locker is in my key case which contains the key to my car.

"Knowing the feeling that must be against me for what I have done, the simplest solution is to save the state and county the expense and notoriety of a trial. I would like to make one last request. No one should mourn for me. I would like to have my body cremated and my ashes scattered. I have approximately $130 in my pocketbook which should cover that expense."

Probe Death Fall Of Hub Woman

Police today were probing the death of Mrs. Catherine Haggerty, 60, of Brook st., East Boston, following a report by Medical Examiner William J. Brickley that injuries she supposedly suffered in a fall were "not consistent with one fall."

Death was caused by rupture of the heart, multiple fractures of the ribs and pelvis and many other injuries, he said.

The woman was discovered on the sidewalk in front of the house, where she was employed as a housekeeper, by her employer Frank Drago, 60.

Tides, Tornadoes Floods Rip South

By the Associated Press

Floods, tornadoes and tidal waves left a toll of at least eight dead, hundreds homeless and uncounted property damage in the deep South today.

Week-end deluges increased the flood danger along the Mississippi's tributaries. A three-foot tidal wave from the Gulf of Mexico swept into Morgan City, La., flooded 30 blocks and drove 70 families from their homes.

Mobile, Ala., was hit by high winds and tides, a man was drowned and waterfront residents had to be evacuated.

Three persons were killed and several homes destroyed by a tornado which hit Caney, La. Another twister demolished 11 homes and damaged others in Many, La.

Tent camps for flood refugees were set up by the Red Cross in several central Louisiana towns.

Four young people were drowned near Erath, La., when an automobile plunged into a flooded canal.

Most of Jefferson, Tex., was inundated when three rivers in the Arkansas-Louisiana-Texas triangle rose to all-time highs.

The Red Cross called for evacuation of several hundred families along the St. Francis river in Cross County, Ark.

Strike Vote Set In New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, April 2—With the end of the 30-day cooling-off period required under the Smith-Connally act, approximately 80 members of the AFL teamsters' local employed by the Fisk and Firestone tire fabric mills, scheduled a strike vote today. Death of 14 More Jap Admirals Told

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2 (AP)—The Japanese Domei agency today reported the death of 14 more Jap admirals "in action." This brings to 108 the total of naval officers of flag rank whose deaths have been reported by the enemy since May, 1944.

Easter Thieves

SALT LAKE CITY, April 2 (AP)—Easter Sunday traditions got a slight setback here as the result of thievery.

The new spring outfit of Mrs. Dora Millen was stolen from a clothes closet in her apartment while six white New Zealand rabbits were removed from a hutch belonging to Mrs. Mae C. Kershaw, the owners reported to police.

OUR BOYS MUST EAT—A couple of hungry sailors and their lady friends have found a way to beat the military ruling that servicemen can't get served after midnight. They can purchase food to take outside, so here the gals have rigged up a sidewalk cafe to feast on sandwiches and beer outside a New York delicatessen.

Seeks Bracelet

Heartbroken at the loss of a bracelet sent her by her sailor boy friend from Sicily, Miss Freda Chudnofsky, 18, of 158 Congress ave., Chelsea, appealed to the Boston American today for help.

She described the bracelet as of sterling silver set with five small cameos. She had received it only two weeks ago, from RM 3c Leon Wrightman of Brighton, and was wearing it for the first time Saturday night.

She first missed it, she said, after attending the RKO-Keith Theater.

Navy to Accept Doctors of 60

The First Naval District announced today that physicians up to 60 years of age would be accepted for service in an effort to fill an acute need for Navy doctors.

In addition, physicians previously refused for service because of some physical defect will be reconsidered and, the announcement said, have an excellent chance of being commissioned in the Navy Medical Corps.

Physicians who qualify under the 60-year age limit will be assigned to Naval hospitals and other Navy medical establishments ashore.

The next professional examination for Navy doctors will be held April 23 and interested doctors in this area may apply to the First Naval District officer procurement office, 150 Causeway st.

Garden Will Sprout On Boston Common

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School and Director of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.)

Realizing that production of food on the home front is more essential this year than ever, and that victory gardeners must increase production if the country is to be well fed, the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser will again sponsor and conduct its demonstration garden on Boston Common.

In checking back over last year's results I find that many gardeners are still making the following mistakes:

1—Many gardens were planted without previous planning. This causes a waste of space, low yields per square foot of land, overproduction of some crops, and a waste of seed and fertilizer.

2—Land was not used throughout the season. When succession crops are not used and the land kept occupied with crops, there is a loss of labor, fertilizer and yields.

Our demonstration garden will again be planned and carried on with the aim of helping victory gardeners to use their land to best advantage. Follow our plans as shown in last week's Sunday Advertiser and visit our garden during the growing season.

Plowing of Boston's victory garden plots began today at the Olmstead and Daisy fields on the Jamaicaway, fully two weeks ahead of the date on which plowing started last week.

In all, 14 city parks and fields will be plowed for gardens and the work will take about two weeks, Park Commr. Long, director of the victory garden program, announced today. He said the early warm weather, freeing the ground of frost and softening and drying the soil, had made the early start possible.

On Monday, April 16, supervisors will be at the various fields to allocate plots to those who have filed applications with the committee. The number of applicants already exceeds the total of last year and Commr. Long predicts that this year's program will greatly surpass those of previous years.

Pro-Burial Mass For Maj. Burke

Solemn pro-burial mass with full military honors will be celebrated for Maj. Arthur W. Burke, husband of Mrs. Mona M. (Grant) Burke of Savin Hill ave., Dorchester, in St. William's Church, Dorchester, at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Maj. Arthur W. Burke

A large American Legion delegation with full colors will join with members of the 101st Army Infantry and the YD Club of Boston in paying last tribute to Maj. Burke, who was killed in Germany six months after he landed overseas.

He distinguished himself in battle on numerous occasions, for which he was awarded the Silver Star, Bronze Star and Combat Infantryman Badge, and was recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross.

Besides his wife, he leaves a son, Grant, 2.

King Warns Drivers As Death Reach 9

Motorists were warned today against driving past red lights when no one is looking, after Registrar King reported nine fatal accidents in the state last week, one of the victims being struck when a tractor truck went past a red light.

"I have observed a growing tendency on the part of motorists to disregard red lights, and I warn that there will be more serious accidents if drivers fail to observe traffic rules," Registrar King said.

vances in the Rhine plain south of Heidelberg were reported. The Germans said the American Seventh had reached the Bruchsal area, 37 miles northwest of Stuttgart, outflanking Karlsruhe.

German Army Group B was composed of the Fifth Panzer army and the 15th army. Pocketed along with these were a number of divisions of the First Parachute army as well as thousands of static and organizational troops.

Loss of the Ruhr was a satastrophe for Germany. Eisenhower's deputy, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, said in October Germany would be defeated within 60 days after that great industrial region was lost.

The Germans' Army Group H in Holland was reported pulling out of that low country because of the hourly increasing threat Field Marshal Monigomery's drive north of the Ruhr would spring another trap. Disorganized Army Group G in the south was reeling back into central Germany.

The British Second Army at last publishable reports had stabbed at least 70 miles beyond the Rhine. The direction in which Lt. Gen. Dempsey aimed indicated that all but a few of the circuitous road and mail connections with the V-bomb belt on the Dutch coast soon would be cut. The heart of England would be free from the murderous fire of the vengeance weapons, once the bomb supply route was closed.

Mosquito bombers attached the eastward surge of road and rail movements through the narrowing bottleneck through western Holland all last night, from dusk to dawn.

The backdoor of the Ruhr was slammed shut by the Second and Third Armored Divisions at Lippstadt, Paderborn, 18 miles to the east, fell.

The first probings of the trapped Germans was felt northwest of Frankenberb. The enemy was searchhing for a thin spot but there seemed little chance he could muster the force or achieve the mobility for a major break.

The Seventh Army's 12th Armored Division reachhed Ochsenfurt and the outskirts of Wuerzburg at Marienberg across the Main from the Bavarian city. Patch's force was 100 miles or less from Czechoslovakia and linked up with the French First Army which had overrun 20 or more towns in an 18-mile penetration beyond the Rhine.

The Seventh Army brought in another 4000 prisoners, including Lt. Gen. Count von Oriola, commander of the German 13th Army Corps. The British in the north captured Gen. Count Shulenberg.

A total of 350,000 Germans captured on the western front in March included 150,000 taken by the Third Army and 90,000 by the First, a dispatch frfom Gen. Bradleys' 12th Army group headquarters said, adding:

"The German situation in the west is falling apart so badly that the possibility of an attempt to transfer some divisions from the east isn't excluded, despite the sorry German situation in the east."

Patton's Third Army captured 11,307 prisoners yesterday and had thousands more trudging back to prison gates.

Navy Blue Top Color

By BETTY ALDEN

TOP HATS AND CANES were as scarce in the Easter parade as the traditional ham for dinner. But what the sterner sex lacked in sartorial splendor the ladies and mother nature made up for in a riot of gay flowered hats and the forsythia and magnolias bursting into blossom along the avenue.

Though few of Boston's aristocracy took part in the annual promenade along the Mall they turned out in large numbers for services at Trinity, Emmanuel and other large churches. Navy blue was the top color choice of fashionable ladies attending Trinity. Mrs. George Proctor 3d, with Lt. Proctor and two of their youngsters, wore a Navy redingote with a shiny straw half hat bound in white pique to match her white orchids. Mrs. Dudley Talbot, niece of former Gov. Fuller and a beautiful blonde, chose a Navy suit and a very fetching pancake hat of white starched lace. Her mother, Mrs. Fuller Halsey, wore a black and white printed silk dress, black jacket and matching sailor hat.

MRS. JOHN YERXA arrived with Mary Otis, the former with touches of luggage tan on her beanie to match the color of her alligator shoes and purse. Mary's black suit was brightened by the cascade of rosebuds on her shiny straw sailor. Mrs. Robert M. P. Kennard arrived at Trinity where her husband is an usher, with her three children, Bob, Jr., Anne and Lisa. Gen. and Mrs. Calvin DeWitt also worshipped at this historic church as did Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Paine of Weston, Mr. and Mrs. George Peabody Gardner, Jr., with daughter Rose, Talbot Chase with his daughter, Mrs. Roger Converse, Jerry Smith and his mother, Mrs. Charles G. Smith, Mrs. Arthur Bell in a tailored gray suit with lime blouse and lime daisies on her hat, Mrs. Benjamin Ragle and Anne Knowles, in one of the cutest hats of the day—a red straw coronet with clusters of white hyacinths over each ear.

Mrs. Alfred Lowell and daughter Christina were among those attending Arlington St. Church as were Lydia Evans and Mrs. Bernard Weld. Christina was modishly dressed in the season's favorite tailleur, a suit of woodsy green with a toast straw half hat.

MRS. BAYARD WARREN and her newly married daughter, Mrs. Peter Black, both wore navy and white costume suits for services at Emmanuel. They were joined there by Mrs. Black's mother-in-law, Mrs. Taylor Black, whose fetching bright green beanie had a spray of gay red cherries on one side. Mr. and Mrs. Harris Nelson, the latter in a trim gray suit and silver fox jacket, walked over from their home on Beacon st., as did Mrs. Harry Hayward and daughter, Mrs. Hayward Sanders, who chose for Easter Sunday a violet dress, beige fitted coat and gay hat of pink lilacs.

Brilliant shades of violet and chartreuse felt fashioned the jaunty turban which Mrs. Roger Warner wore with her tailored Navy ensemble and Mrs. Robert Cushman chose a pink flower hat to brighten her black outfit.

Other socialites glimpsed in the Easter throng were Sculptress Katharine Lane and her mother, Mrs. Gardiner Lane, at Emmanuel, Mrs. Norman Hoffman, radiantly strolling up Newbury st. with her Lt. Com. husband who is home on leave, Mrs. Robert Bainbridge heading for Hingham and Sunday dinner with Lt. Bainbridge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamlen, the latter in a Navy suit with shaded pink and rose flowers on her Navy bonnet, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Schier at Trinity, Post-deb Edith Hall, Mrs. Louis Curtis and Mrs. Renouf Russell, Jr., with her sister, Mrs. John Gardiner.

MRS. WALLACE SCUDDER—Attends Easter services.

F. D. Hails Opening Of Boys' Club Week

Publicly commended by President Roosevelt for their fine record in volunteer work in the war effort, members of the Boys' Clubs of Boston today joined with member clubs throughout the country in the observance of National Boys' Club Week, which continues through Saturday.

In a message to William Edwin Hall, president of the national organization, President Roosevelt said:

"Please convey my greetings and good wishes to the Boys' Clubs of America upon the occasion of Boys' Club Week, which marks the 39th anniversary of the founding of your splendid, character-building organization."

Commending the boys for their contributions on the home front, collecting salvage material, selling war bonds, cultivating victory gardens and aiding farmers, the President added:

"Please extend my congratulations to them for their fine record of accomplishment in volunteer aid of the war effort."

Frederic C. Church, president of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, in a radio message urged the public to make it a "must" to visit the clubhouses in their neighborhoods during the week. They are located at 14 Green st., Charlestown; 80 Dudley st., Roxbury, and at F and West Sixth sts., South Boston. Arthur T. Burger is executive director.

Casualties of Canada Army Rise to 90,837

OTTAWA, April 2 (AP)—The Canadian army suffered 2681 casualties in February—third lowest monthly total since D-Day, June 6—defense headquarters announced in a statement which showed Canada's total service casualties were 90,837 from the start of the war to March 1.

February casualties for the Navy totalled 46 and the RCAF 521.

Last Day to Pick Oratory Winners

With only a day remaining for submission of the names of entrants in the William Randolph Hearst National Oratory Contest, "James Monroe and the Monroe Doctrine," students in Boston public and parochial schols and in 14 Greater Boston colleges prepared today for the local contest in Faneuil Hall, to be held April 10.

The most recent names submitted were Janet Zoll, who will represent Roxbury Memorial High School for Girls, and Muriel Bradley, representing East Boston High School.

Herring Runs Start at Hingham, Weymouth

Add signs of early spring: the herring are running up the Back river at Hingham and East Weymouth. The alewives generally do not put in an appearance hereabouts until the middle or latter part of April.

Supt. of Alewives Thomas O'Toole of East Weymouth said public taking of the fish will begin in a few days.

Hen-Power

BOISE, Idaho, April 2 (AP)—Two years of protection from hunters have made the Idaho sage hen aggressive and almost too healthy, says Motorist F. E. Shook.

A 12-pound hen collided head on with his car while Shook was driving over the lava flows desert and almost forced the machine off the road.

SS military text before qualifying for Himmler's force, and all of whom wore army decorations of some sort, were our angel guardians for the night—the only sentinels twixt us and Kraut soldiers on the other side of the river if they wished to wigwag and blink invitations to their blood brothers to come over for a brief throat-slitting party. There was nothing to prevent them.

That's what I call faith in human nature. Nothing happened. Maybe it wasn't worth while. Maybe the Kraut cops knew a fat sinecure when they saw one. As for me, I decided to see the rest of the war strictly with combat troops, and leave theoretical brain trust branches of the Army to their own vagaries.

Using heinie gendarmes as rear area chaperons over meek (sic) peoples is one thing—having them for outposts in fraternal contact with their weasel pals is another.

Morning came and with it the tanks.

This swift advance through the Rhineland has had its creature comforts. Instead of damp, cramped sleep in soggy foxholes, men spend occasional nights in commandeered houses, often in feather beds, for the average city German lived amid as good (or better) appointments as the average American and infinitely better than the social level of French, British or Belgians I've seen.

There is little evidence of any starvation or squalor in the big chunk of Germany we've chewed off. Ruins and uprooted people, yes. The bombings and bombardments came later.

There were Sherman tanks in a field and crews manicuring their gear; for this was a quiet interlude between one savage lunge and another. Certainly American industry, both labor and management, has done a magnificent job. The quantity of mobile machinery spread over liberated Europe is stupendous, and that is not too large a word.

As in the French villages we passed through before, German townspeople stand all day and gape blankly at unending miles of material flowing to the front.

Europeans are inherently anti to anything that is alien, but they are being educated to a new conception of "commercial soft living"—America. They've experienced the tough fibre of our soldiery and seen the quality and mass of our war manufactures. I trust that is not too blatant a crier for our team.

There were only two New Englanders in the tank pool: Cpl. James J. Sullivan, 111 Medford st., Arlington, driver of the "annihilator," who has been through the thick of fighting from Luxembourg to the Rhine, and Pvt. Whitley Shailer, New Braintree rd., West Brookfield, gunner of the "Red Rock," who helped hunt me a can of pineapple juice at a ration truck—for drinking water in this zone is a real problem.

Sgt. Sidney Leavitt

Cpl. James J. Sullivan

What water there is has been condemned unless purified by the little chlorine tablets each soldier carries, and then it tastes like embalming fluid smells.

That's why fruit juice in civilian America calls for high ration points. It's vital to combat soldiers.

In front of a house where 15 Kraut prisoners were being stripped of knives and hardware was Lt. Edward F. Jones, 14 Grant st., New Haven, cousin of Yale's Albie Booth, and CWO Anthony J. Morency, 157 Railroad st., Manville, R. I., blocky, broad-faced tractor expert who was with Adm. Byrd's Antarctic expedition.

Along one of a few undamaged streets there were two small children, a boy and a girl. The lad regarded me belligerently through an iron fence, then raised his hand smartly in Nazi salute. "Heil Hitler," he shrilled. In miniature it was comical.

Nearby, in a pretty house where GIs luxuriated among hand carved furniture, I found Sgt. Sidney Leavitt, 226 Harvard st., Dorchester, one of the men who had "robbed" the bank of Andernacht (on his colonel's orders). The army grabbed $40,000 worth of currency on that deal. Also here was PFC Tarmo Holma, 408 Water st., Quincy, gunner of the "Glory."

There was a gypsying group of Russian laborers camped in the woods along the Rhine, people who are swarming back in pathetic hordes, wandering aimlessly, living from hand to mouth.

A whiskered man was cutting up a horse recently killed by an artillery shell. He sliced off chunks of red meat and handed them dripping to a kerchiefed woman, who spitted them on a stick and barbecued them over a wood fire. The rest ate hungrily of roasted flesh and watched us pass with solemn cow-like eyes.

Frisco Parley Delay Hinted

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—The British press hinted today of possible postponement of the World Security Conference in San Francisco scheduled for April 25.

The London Daily Sketch suggested the postponement editorially while the Yorkshire Post—with which Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's family is connected—said such a delay "would be scarcely surprising."

The Post, citing possibility of the European war's ending before the talks start, declared the absence from Britain of Eden and other top-ranking British political leaders scheduled to attend the conference "would impose considerable difficulties at such a juncture in the nation's history."

H. V. Evatt, Aucstralian minister for external affairs, here en route to San Francisco, hinted that Australia was opposed to giving Russia and the United States three votes each in the proposed new world security league

"The Ritz"

This floating hotel, proudly named "Ritz Carlton," houses more than 600 Seabees stationed at one of the Pacific bases operated by Squadron 10 of the Pacific fleet service force. It is one of several such vessels used as hotels and containing nearly all the conveniences of a modern hostelry.

PURSUING A FALLACY

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has asked Congress to renew the so-called reciprocal trade agreements act, and in doing so to enlarge his powers to whittle away the remnants of our protective tariff system.

Moreover, he wants Congress to act in a hurry, in this as in other controversial matters.

He wants the Bretton Woods financial schemes, the Chicago "civil aviation arrangements," the "proposed food and agricultural organization of the United Nations" and the requested extension of the trade agreements act, all to be adopted—so that this country will be fully committed—before the international conference is held at San Francisco to draw up the charter for a new League of Nations under which presumably the several "plans" are to operate.

This is manifestly an effort to impose upon the country a vast foreign policy affecting the future of every American industry, the markets of every American farmer and the pay envelopes of every American wage earner, when none of their representatives in Congress can possibly know what that foreign policy will be or how it will work.

Of the various propositions pending, the expansion of the trade agreements act is the least difficult for Americans to understand. We have had considerable experience under it.

WE HAVE, for example, had FACTORIES CLOSED, and MEN THROWN OUT OF THEIR JOBS, in a period of widespread unemployment, because they could not compete with imports from low-wage areas after Secretary of State Hull had cut the tariffs on the foreign goods by 50 per cent under one of his "reciprocal agreements."

This kind of damage could be unpredictably worse in the unpredictable postwar years than it was during the depression period.

Furthermore, Mr. Roosevelt's message to Congress naively confesses that THE TRADE AGREEMENTS ACT HAS NOT BEEN SUCCESSFUL IN THE PAST.

The President notes that "reciprocal trade agreements" have been made with 28 foreign countries.

"As to those countries," he adds, "much of our original authority under the act has been USED UP.

"We are left in this situation: Great Britain and Canada, our largest peacetime customers, still maintain certain high barriers against our exports, just as we still have high barriers against theirs.

"Under the act as it now stands WE DO NOT HAVE ENOUGH TO OFFER THESE COUNTRIES AS A BASIS FOR THE FURTHER CONCESSIONS WE WANT FROM THEM.

"The same situation confronts us, although in a lesser degree, in the case of THE OTHER COUNTRIES with whom we have already made agreements.

"These include France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Turkey, Sweden, Switzerland and most of the American republics."

The New Deal, in brief, has TRADED AWAY what it was authorized to offer without getting what it was expected to get in exchange.

SO WHAT DOES Mr. Roosevelt propose? Essentially, he asks for authority to reduce BY AN ADDITIONAL FIFTY PER CENT the American tariffs that have ALREADY BEEN REDUCED FIFTY PER CENT in order to make new "bargains."

It is estimated in Washington that the net result of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal would be A TRAFFIC REDUCTION OF SEVENTY-FIVE PER CENT from the original basis fixed by act of Congress.

The trend of the New Deal policy is thus clearly away from our historic protective tariff policy to one of FREE TRADE.

THERE seems to be some confusion as to what Marquis of Queensberry originated the rules of boxing. It was John Sholto Douglas, eighth Marquis of Queensberry. His rules made the 24-foot ring the standard, the time of rounds three minutes and the time between one minute. They also made the use of gloves instead of bare fists compulsory. Lord Alfred Douglas, who died recently in England, was the son of the celebrated boxing authority. Lord Alfred was a prominent figure in the famous Oscar Wilde libel suit. Despite the revelations of that trial Lord Alfred did not seek oblivion. On the contrary he spent the rest of his life trying to keep in the public eye. In 1924 he was found guilty of criminally libelling Winston Churchill and sentenced to six months in jail.

PLEASE NOTE: A man I know is being severely criticized for seeking a divorce from his wife who all the neighbors say is "a wonderful woman." I have reserved comment. About two thousand years ago Plutarch wrote the following: "A Roman divorced his wife and was highly blamed by his friends who demanded: 'Was she not chaste? Was she not beautiful? Was she not fruitful?' The man held out his shoe and asked: 'Does that not look like a new and a fine, well-made shoe?' His friends agreed. 'Yet,' said the man 'none of you can tell where it pinches me.'"

WOMEN, ETC.: Women dream more oftener and talk in their sleep more than men. So states an expert on the subject. If your wife ever starts talking in her sleep; be a gentleman and leave the room. If you wake her up don't tell her she was talking in her sleep. That will worry her. No matter what you tell her she was saying while sleeping she will be afraid she said something else. Every woman has a few very deep secrets. Wives who talk in their sleep should, to preserve their peace of mind, have a room separate from their husbands . . . Most women do not like beards. In this connection it will be recalled that Clark Gable once strongly objected to playing a part which called for his wearing a beard. Said Mr. Gable: "Women do not like beards. They are not romantic."

We don't want any of our female subscribers to go husbandless. Anyway, your attention is called to getting a husband Rule No. 14, contributed to our Mules & Men Department files by a young woman who has been married twice and each time to a millionaire: *"Be provocative in appearance but modest in demeanor. SIDELIGHTS: In Iceland the girls wear the wedding band as an engagement ring. I am not for that idea. But I do think the wedding band should be a much more beautiful and more expensive ring than the engagement ring . . . Some wives of men who have been reported missing in action seem a little too anxious to marry again. Even when a man is reported killed his widow should let some time elapse before she marries. A man I know who was reported dead was in reality a prisoner held by the Japs. He was rescued in the Philippines. He returned to the United States to find his wife had married again and was the mother of a baby by her new husband. Some homecoming for a hero!

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

WASHINGTON, April 2—Habit is a wonderful thing. For as far back as anyone cares to remember, Rep. Jerry Voorhis of California has gotten up at least once a semester and introduced a bill to amend the bituminous coal act.

Rep. Jerry Voorhis

The bill is always defeated but it never fazes Mr. Voorhis in the slightest. He merely waits a few months and introduces it again. The performance has gotten to be sheer habit.

The other day, Mr. Voorhis brought it up again. He looked pained and nonplussed when many of his colleagues began snickering.

What Mr. Voorhis apparently didn't know was that he was trying to amend something that doesn't exist.

The bituminous coal act expired months ago!

FOR SOME BAFFLING reason there seems to be a widespread notion that I am inclined to be critical of Secretary of the Interior Ickes. I cannot imagine how this idea got around; maybe one of those whispering campaigns.

I suppose, to a casual or superficial reader, it might sometimes seem as if I were not entirely heart and soul with the greatest Secretary of the Interior since Jonah. But this could only come from careless reading—and, if you do not care to get the Jonah gag you can go take a big jump for yourself.

That's the way I feel today—Independent!

Nevertheless I wish it thoroughly understood that I am a 100 per cent Ickes man. Doesn't that make me loathsome?

The reason I am currently on my feet, cheering for the venerable sourpuss, is that he has just made one of the finest—to my mind—awards in the history of good government!

EVERY RED-BLOODED American who has ever stopped to watch an excavation or a crew digging up car tracks will applaud this award. He will realize its farsighted significance.

As a confirmed hole-in-the-ground-watcher I am sure it will step up efficiency anywhere from 600 to 10,000 per cent.

The recipient of the award is Frank Larner, of 3183 Key Boulevard, Arlington, Va., (legal residence Oskaloosa, Kan.) photogrammetric engineer of the Interior Department's geological survey. Mr. Larner (I wonder why he doesn't go back to Oskaloosa?) is one of 26 Interior employes rewarded for suggestions on improving the home-front.

With his own fair hands, Secretary Ickes handed Mr. Larner $100 for:

"Suggesting that field topographic engineering parties be furnished with fact sheets explaining their mission, thus saving much time answering questions of curious 'kibitzers' in the localities where the engineers are working!"

JUST THINK!—Next time you stop to peer down an open manhole a fellow from the Interior Department will probably come along and hand you a mimeographed sheet explaining the performance.

Don't forget—you can't tell the manhole crew without a program!

I BELIEVE I have mentioned that Senators have a deplorable habit of sneaking away when one of their number gets into a long-winded speech.

Quite frequently, when a Senator finds himself deserted, he will request a quorum call. This means that bells start ringing like mad all over the Capitol, summoning the wandering Senators back to the fold.

The other day the Senate Commerce Committee was holding a hearing on postwar aviation. The principal witness was Juan Trippe, president of Pan-American Airways.

While Mr. Trippe was testifying the bells began dingling. Mr. Trippe looked questioningly at Sen. Josiah W. Bailey, committee chairman.

The Senator offered reassurance.

"Do not be concerned about those bells," he told Mr. Trippe. He pointed downward, indicating they came from the Senate chamber on the floor below. "They are just trying to get somebody to listen to some poor fellow down there!"

Westbrook Pegler is taking his annual vacation. Meanwhile, this space will be taken by George Dixon.

HOLLYWOOD, April 2—I am beginning to feel that June Haver is not only a definite asset to the screen, but that she's a mighty nice little girl. Yesterday she spent Easter entertaining 35 wounded servicemen, hurrying home after church to help make preparations for their day.

June, who has hoped and hoped she might one day have a dramatic part, will get it in "Enchanted Voyage," by Robert Nathan, a delightful story in which little June plays a frustrated waitress. I imagine it was the success of "The Clock" that brought the Nathan book out of wrapping and decided 20th to make it. Lloyd Bacon will direct it.

I've said from the start that the part cried for Boyer—and vice versa. After a run of heavy "drammers" a light comedy role will look good on him.

ONE UNLOOKED for and tragic aspect of the strike is the necessity for closing down the Blood Bank at several studios at a time when plasma is so sorely needed. Because so many men are out on strike, there aren't enough donors. The strike now goes into its fourth week and the studios will be sorely pressed if it lasts any longer. Up to now there have been enough sets to continue making pictures already started, but with the carpenters on strike and new pictures starting, there just aren't enough men to build the sets.

He's told his agent, William Herndon, he'll work for the movies at $150,000 a picture; Barbara Blue, Monte's daughter, who has taken up first aid nursing, wants me to stress the importance of getting new students; here's a laugh. Edgar Bergen is looking for a house in Hollywood, not to spend his honeymoon, mind you, but just to move his offices; William Desmond, beloved character actor of the silent days, is a grandfather. His daughter, Mrs. Robert Robertson, just presented him with a granddaughter; Col. David Tully, who will take over as military governor in charge of rehabilitation in occupied Germany, is Tom Tully's brother. Is Tom proud? What do you think? Angela Green was badly burned when a glass coffee-maker broke in her hand and spilled all over her. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

These Days . . . By George E. Sokolsky

CERTAINLY the European war ends when organized fighting ends. The Germans have disintegrated. German strength has become dissipated. German morale has collapsed. The end is in sight. It is not a question of unconditional surrender because that is a meaningless term. It is a question of the occupation of a vast country and the establishment of civilian government.

For many months there were rumors that the Nazi would not stand up for a surrender. His plan has been to turn his country into a cemetery, to leave his cities piles of rubble and to throw into the laps of the conquerors the problems of sanitation, food, health, and policing. It is the acme of irresponsibility. Yet, nothing more could be expected of a totalitarian state or of an undemocratic political system.

THIS MUCH IS CERTAIN, the end of the war in Germany reduces the military problems of the United States. We shall be having only one war whereas since December, 1941, we have been in two wars—two different kinds of wars. It is amazing how well we have done in these two wars.

It must be noted—and everlastingly remembered—that in both wars we have, certainly since 1943, assumed the principal role.

On the western front, we have, since the landing in Normandy, provided manpower beyond anything that any of our Allies, or all of them put together were able to send to the front.

THE BRITISH have been tremendously important but after we got in, this country's contribution over-shadowed all others. In fact, it was the American Army on the West and the Russian Army on the East that did the fighting, and the United States supplied both the Russian and British armies and people with supplies, food and money. Altogether it has been an accomplishment beyond human imagination.

THE PACIFIC WAR has been ours almost entirely. It is true that the British and Chinese have done some fighting, but the main battles have been ours. The reconquest of the Philippines, the heroic battle of Iwo Jima, the cutting of Japanese supply lines, the reduction of the Japanese fleet, the supplying of the Chinese—these have all been American accomplishments.

The Russians have not been in the Pacific war. Whatever has so far been conquered has been conquered by the United States. Whatever has been captured has been captured by American soldiers and sailors and Marines. It has been our war—and the gains should be ours. We owe nothing to anybody except perhaps to Chiang Kai-Shek and the Nationalist Army for their heroic stand for 14 years.

When we shall have won that war, we ought to hold all the islands and areas that we conquer except those that we can turn back to native peoples for their own self-government.

THE COMPLICATIONS both in Europe and Asia are, from now on, principally with our Allies, not with our enemies. There have been two thoughts on this subject: 1—That we should at the beginning have asked our Allies to sign on the dotted line with regard to boundaries, systems of government, people's rights, etc.; 2—that we first win the war and then solve outstanding problems. The latter view prevailed except as some irrepressible matters were dealt with at Quebec, Moscow, Teheran, Yalta and other conferences. Nevertheless, the fact is that nothing basic has been settled, and the end of the war in Europe faces us with the necessity of dealing with our own Allies, whose views are not identical with ours.

WE BELIEVE that every people has a right to self-government. Our Allies believe in a balance of power. The same difficulty will face us in Asia. The Chinese will demand what they call territorial integrity; the British will want Hong Kong back, the Russians may, after we have won that war, give evidence of an interest in Manchuria

This is no time for a quarrel with our Allies. It is a time for hard thinking, for realism without the sacrifice of principle. Solutions come quickly to the flexible mind—and vanish into thin air as quickly. If we honestly and sincerely adhere to our national ideals, we shall not have won these wars in vain.

MONDAY MUSINGS—Jimmy Byrnes' official announcement in all the Sunday papers that the ban on racing would be lifted on V-E Day was foretold exclusively in this space Saturday . . . Not only was the forecast here beamed correctly but our inside story on the decision to restore racing reported the details which led to the move.

THE WAR MOBILIZER, in his report on war progress on the home front, said that he had decided the suspension of racing, like the midnight curfew, was a measure of emergency nature which should be withdrawn when Gen. Eisenhower announces the end of hostilities in Europe . . . According to our information, it would seem that Byrnes beat the powerful Senate War Activities Committee in breaking into print on the horse racing issue.

THE COMMITTEE was getting ready to release details of a closed-door hearing at which it voted 7-2 to lift the horse racing ban, despite Byrnes' own opposition . . . He wanted to keep his edict in effect until after the Japs were licked, and he told the committee so . . . However, only two members appeared willing to go along with him on this issue . . . These were some of the facts the Senate committee planned to make public, but Jimmy's Easter punch now makes it look as though the committee will hold its peace . . . In race track language, the news came "from Washington out of Boston After Dark."

NOW! NEW AMERICAN AIRLINES FLAGSHIP SCHEDULES

EVERY HOUR ON THE HOUR TO NEW YORK

Now, American Airlines offers 25 trips daily each way between Boston and New York. Convenient schedules for those who must travel include 17 departures every hour on the hour, from 7 a.m. through 11 p.m. daily, from New York and from Boston—plus eight other flights each way at convenient off-the-hour times.

Because of the limited number of planes which have been returned to us by the army, we do not have as many flights as before the war, but we have tried to arrange departures to provide greatest convenience and maximum service for as many people as possible. Ticket Offices: Hotel Statler, at Main Entrance.

Rhubarb Treats

By MARTHA LEE

THE FIRST HINT of spring in the air announces the arrival of rosy rhubarb.

Rhubarb Raisin Pie combines the elegant flavor of rhubarb with that of raisins.

RHUBARB RAISIN PIE

1 cup sifted enriched flour
½ tsp. salt
1-3 cup shortening
1 to 2 tbsp. cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add water gradually. Mix into a dry, crumbly dough. Toss on lightly floured pastry cloth. Roll and fold until smooth. Roll about ⅛ inch thick. Line 9-inch pie pan. Prick with fork. Fill with rhubard raisin filling. Dot with margarine or butter, if desired. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350 deg. F.) and continue baking for about 45 minutes.

RHUBARB RAISIN FILLING

3 cups rhubarb ½ cup raisins
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1½ cups sugar
6 tbsp. enriched flour
¼ tsp. salt
Margarine or butter, if desired

Wash rhubarb and cut into 1-inch pieces. Cover raisins with hot water. Let stand about 10 minutes. Drain raisins. Combine raisins, rhubarb and rind. Sift together sugar, flour and salt. Mix flour mixture and fruit mixture. Fill pastry shell with rhubarb filling. (If rhubarb is very dry, a small amount of water may be added.) Makes 1 pie, 9-inch in diameter.

For extra special dinner parties, glamorize rhubarb raisin pie with a cream cheese topping. To make this delicate topping, whip cream cheese to the consistency of whipped cream and place a scoop of cheese on top of each serving of pie. Another tempting way to serve this favorite is with a thin lemon sauce drizzled sparingly over each serving. Served plain or dressed up with extra frills, this is an A-1 de luxe dessert.

Glazed rhubarb turn-about is a colorful parade leader. This inviting dessert, with its pinky rhubarb topping and tender scone foundation, needs only ¼ cup of sugar to give it dandy-like elegance.

GLAZED RHUBARB TURN-ABOUT

Glazed Rhubarb

1 lb. rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces (about 4 cups)
½ cup sugar
2 tbsp. enriched flour
⅓ cup corn syrup

Place rhubarb into 3 individual casseroles. Mix sugar and flour. Add syrup and mix well. Pour over rhubarb.

Scone Turn-About

1 cup sifted enriched flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. shortening
¼ cup milk
1 tbsp. corn syrup
½ tsp. lemon extract
1 egg, beaten

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk, syrup, and lemon extract to egg. Add all to flour mixture, stirring only enough to moisten flour. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls on rhubarb mixture, forming ring around edge of dish. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 4 glazed (rhubarb) turn-abouts

Beauty Gives Skin Satiny Finish

SINCE IT'S LOVE that makes the world go round ... every girl in love wants to be the pin-up dream-girl of her honey's affections. Cheerful little bowlful that she is ... former Warner Star Joyce Reynolds has shunned fame for love because "her heart belongs to daddy." And, Mrs. G. E. R. ... a war-wife ... whose husband returns from the wars next month wants that loving reunion to be dramatized with face and figure beauty as well. Hers is a typical call for loveliness aid.

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

OUR MAIL BAG holds such interesting reading matter . . . more attention arresting than some footlight monologues. Although behind the trace of humor, more often than not, is a frantic call for help. Take Mrs. G. E. R.'s appealing yet plaintive missive . . . a recital which many a youn g war wife will be saying over and over and over again . . . now that V-E Day seems like an immediate future reality.

"Husband in service, wife home, has baby, never regains figure but instead adds more. Now husband is coming home after two years absence, in May, and wife is a mess frankly. What to do 'Mrs. Anthony'?" this 30-year-old young woman implores.

She needs complete renovation . . . hoping that when that boy-meets-girl reunion takes place next month . . . she'll be as enticing as any pin-up girl her husband looked at during relaxing moments of USO performances. "Give me your personal choice of that most glamorous make-up base available for my dry skin," she asks, "so that I can be a glamor puss by the time my honey comes home in six weeks."

Mrs. G. E. R. is not alone in her need for facial uplift and weight control information. Although she has many beauty problems. But today . . . because the representative of a most exclusive cosmetic line is in town . . . and because the make-up base of this house is so extra special lovely . . . the column will take up Mrs. G. E. R.'s loveliness needs in reverse.

Make-up is SO important to most girls . . . ever in search of the foundation that is the just-right consistency spread for complexion enchantment . . . a foundation make-up that won't dry the skin . . . that will glorify the face into matching loveliness with the new look . . . that won't recur in tiny oil bubbles on the skin's surface . . . and that won't invoke an illusion of an enlarged pore condition as some are wont to do.

A ROMANTIC TOUCH

The lustrous liquid-cream foundation of this ingenious creator truly adds a satiny finish to the skin . . . for it is sopped by the epidermis like a baking-powder biscuit sops up the juice of freshly-crushed luscious strawberries. It creates an expanse of smoothness utterly enchanting . . . and it really does something for the complexion.

Made to suit the tempo and dash of the vivacious, exciting American girl . . . it adds a romantic touch to the face. And the shades are as interesting as a diary.

For the name of this lustrous make-up of semi-liquid creamy consistency, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NO WONDER the wolf was after Red Riding Hood. She was dressed by Philip Mangone in this wonderful little red cape-coat of sheer wool with collar and cape-lining in contrasting black ... and worn with a delicately designed diamond clip and tiny diamond four-leaf clovers on the ears, a Van Cleef and Arpels design. Isn't the narrow-brimmed coachman's sailor of grege straw, by Sally Victor, a masterpiece of head nonchalance? This is spring youth at her best—R. M.

Accessories of Gingham

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SALLY VICTOR has an accessory idea that is just pure genius for summer. She is making accessory sets out of gingham to give life and sparkle to simple summer clothes. In Hope Skillman plaid ginghams, in such charming colors as blue and white, pink and white, etc., she makes sailors with tie-on bustle or peplum to match. Also she makes a bib to go with a hat, a belt and gloves. All are of this plaid gingham.

Miss Dulin has sketched a set for you. This hat and bustle Sally Victor makes of blue and white and gray plaid gingham. The sailor is trimmed with rising wings in gray and blue and a black satin band. The veil has one black beauty spot on it. The bustle of the plaid gingham is cut with a flattering flatness at the back, flanked with ruffles, and it ties at the front. You can wear this bustle as a peplum, 'tother way round.

Charm Tip

Although all you ever need to say to acknowledge an introduction is "How do you do," you can make these words shine by saying them in a tone that says, "How nice it is to meet you!"

—MRS. BEECKMAN.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

DON'T INTRUDE!

"Table-hopping" is no longer considered "smart" and can be annoying to two who want to be alone. If those at the table don't ask you to join them, don't prolong your "visit!"

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday — I had some very pleasant guests at lunch yesterday. One of them, just back from Europe and stationed here for a short time, was able to tell me news of our son in that area. In addition, one of my cousins has brought his little boy to spend Easter, and I know nothing nicer than the undisguised enthusiasm of a little child! He walked out in the White House grounds Saturday morning, looked all about and said to his father: "Isn't this a beautiful place?" The rest of us may think it, but we so rarely say it.

THE NEWLY-APPOINTED minister of Syria, Dr. Nazem Koudsi, called on me in the afternoon, and a little later I had the pleasure of seeing Mrs. Carter Collins of Ft. Benning, Ga. Miss Katherine Lenroot of the children's bureau has been telling me about her for some time, since she has done a great deal of work with Army wives there.

At 5 o'clock Miss Gertrude Warren of the Department of Agriculture brought Sgt. Lester Schlup to see me to tell me of Edison College in Florida.

This is Easter Sunday, and Miss Thompson and I, as usual, went to the early service at the Unknown Soldier's Tomb, conducted by the grand encampment of Knights Templar. At 11 o'clock, with some of my other guests, I went to the services at St. Thomas' Church.

A few friends came to lunch, and my two nieces from school and college are here for their short Easter vacation, so we have quite a family party, to which my old friend, Mrs. Charles Fayerweather of New Lebanon, N. Y. is added.

I HAVE JUST RECEIVED WORD that this week will be observed by a quarter-million boys throughout the country as National Boys' Week.

This year will mark the 39th anniversary of the founding of Boys' Clubs of America, a philanthropic organization headed by the Hon. Herbert Hoover. There are 250 member clubs, which provide places for wholesome recreation under constructive leadership for boys in congested areas.

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Now that me daughter Muriel has a bouncing baby boy, and yers trooly is a grandfather, it has been cruelly brought to me attention that the old gent with the scythe, without the usual beard, could easily pass fer me shadow. In short, I'm gittin' old. Yessirree, me son-in-law, Captain Tuttle after receiving ribbons fer doin' his part overseas, has been further decorated with a baby boy . . . Fokes, ain't the war news great? It's so good I kin hardly believe it, and have me fingers crossed for fear I'll wake up out of a wonderful dream. Instead of that, though, I'm praying that I'll wake up one of these beautiful mornings and hear the whistles blowing. Boy, I kin hardly wait! . . . Ya kno, when V-E day does finally git here, and it may be a long way off even yet, there's going to be a lot of celebrating AND A LOT OF PEOPLE CRITICIZING THE CELEBRATERS. Some people think that we shouldn't raise the roof till the Japs go down, and in a way they are right. But nevertheless, when Hitler and his gang reach the end of the rope (and I hope that's where they DO end up), and when all those persecuted countries and their people are free again, yers trooly thinks it is time for sum hootin' and sum hollerin'. As a matter of fact, I bet the boys in the Pacific will do plenty of celebratin' themselves when Germany gits Kayoed! Ort's Grille and El Tropico Room. ADVT.

This Pattern Helps the Beginner

By MARIAN MARTIN

Big news for a beginner in sewing! No sleeves to set in, no collar to finish; just straight, long seams. Princess panels add inches to height, take off pounds, too.

Pattern 9055, sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52. Size 36 takes 3⅝ yards 35-inch fabric.

Send 20 cents in coins for this pattern to Boston Evening American, 21, pattern Dept., P. O. Box 162, Station O, New York 11, N. Y. Print plainly size and style number, your name, address, zone.

Tonight

PLYMOUTH — "DINNER FOR THREE," a new mystery comedy by RKO's producer-director-writer, Tim Whelan, is opening here under sponsorship of Whelan and Boris Morros. Heading cast are Harry Ellerbe, Miriam Seegar, Stanley Logan, Les Tremayne, Marjorie Lord, Helga Moray and Ann Francine.

SHUBERT — "GOOD NIGHT, LADIES," Cyrus Wood's adaptation of the old Avery Hopwood farce, "Ladies' Night," starring Skeets Gallagher and John Hubbard. Gloria Humphries and Sunnie O'Day are in it.

WILBUR — "MARRIAGE IS FOR SINGLE PEOPLE," Stanley Richard's comedy with Ruth Holden, Bertha Belmore and Peggy French, opens a scheduled pre-Broadway run here following a last summer tryout at Cambridge.

Thursday

OPERA HOUSE — "NORMA," with Mmes. Milanov, Tourel, Votipka and Messrs. Jagel, De Paolis and Cordon, will be the opening performance in the forthcoming Metropolitan Opera Association repertory. Cesare Sodero will conduct the Bellini opera. The engagement will continue through April 14.

Continuing

April 8

BOSTON GARDEN—BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, Serge Koussevitzky conducting, assisted by Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society and Metropolitan Opera Stars Eleanor Steber, soprano, Kerstin Thorborg, contralto, Kurt Baum, tenor, and Norman Cordon, bass, will give the choral Ninth Symphony of Beethoven its largest local audience and most distinguished performance next Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. The entire proceeds of the performance will go to the American Red Cross.

April 16

PLYMOUTH—"KISS AND TELL," the F. Hugh Herbert comedy in a second return engagement with Walter Gilbert heading cast.

SHUBERT—"A DOLL'S HOUSE," revival of the Ibsen drama with several Hollywood names heading cast.

COLONIAL—"OVER 21," with Ruth Gordon returning in her own present-day comedy.

April 23

OPERA HOUSE—"BALLET RUSSE," with Alexandra Danilova and Frederic Laurel Hurley, Delmar Poppen and others.

Franklin, comes here for a seven-performance engagement including a Saturday matinee.

April 30

OPERA HOUSE—"THE STUDENT PRINCE," the Shuberts' revival of the Romberg operetta with Alexander Gray.

Crusaders' Pinky Woods Ready for Sox Stardom

By HUCK FINNEGAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 2—To one who has not seen the Red Sox on the field of play since 1943, several striking changes are self-evident. For example:

Pinky Woods

(2) Gone is the "alderman" pitcher George "Pinky" Woods used to tote. "I'm under 200 for the first time in my career," said the old Holy Cross chucker who weighed 220 when he won 18 games and lost 0 for the Crusaders. "Diet and exercise did it," he remarked and one could see he was determined to improve his 1944 record of 4 won, 8 lost.

WOODS WEIGHED 285 when he reported for spring practice in '43. He had the large toe of his right foot amputated the previous winter; used to fall down stairs when re-learning how to walk; was forced to sit around and let the suet pile on. Atop it all he had to change his method of pitching, when he returned to action.

It was a trying test for the Rutland, Vt. lad but he never quit trying and now, with the aid of a special shoe, he seems on the threshold of a big league success, three years later than schedule.

(3) Joe Cronin hasn't lost so much weight as Woods, but he's trimmer than he has been since '41, the last year he played regularly. He can still hit the ball; he's no slower than third baseman Polly, and he'll be fit for utility infield action when needed.

(4) Tom McBride was the flooperoo of the '43 season. He had come up from Little Rock with a flowery reputation, but didn't come close to approximating it in a Red Sox uniform. He had cost the Sox a ball game in Washington by letting the tying run cross the plate without a challenge.

When he evinced more interest in base hits to which he thought he was entitled than in the outcome of the game, he was shipped to Louisville. Now here's the same McBride hitting home runs against the Yankees and getting "six for six" against an all-service team which the Sox routed 20-4 in an Easter Sunday game. Is he that good?

5—Bob Johnson, last seen by the writer in Washington flannels. Between the myriad night games played in Griffith Stadium and the 406-foot wall in left field old Bob didn't shine as brightly as he did in '44 when he almost copped the league batting title as a Red Socker. The big Indian always could hit. For nine straight years with the A's he had 100 or more runs batted in to his credit.

THERE ARE familiar faces, too, like those of dependable Pete Fox, good old Mike Ryba, little Skeeter Newsome and Leon Culberson. One recalls with pleasure the Sox debut of Culberson in Comiskey Park, Chicago. Dee Miles had played center field the first game of a double-header and helped lose it with weird fielding. Culberson, plucked by Tom Daly, replaced him in the second, to field sensationally and the Sox immediately started going places. That was early in '43.

There's one other familiarity which will become self-evident as time goes by. That is the pitching. Rex Cecil looks better than he did last summer. Jim Wilson is a fine prospect. But there's no well-rounded staff like the world champion Sox of 1915 had—Foster, Ruth, Shore, Mays, Leonard. And the Sox will get no farther than their pitching takes them.

No game today . . . Yanks and Sox play at Pleasantville tomorrow . . . Hugh Duffy and Joe Cronin both claim Jack Tobin has the makings of a Grade A infielder. He can hit, run, throw and has baseball "savvy" . . .

St. Joe's to Hold Sports Night

A Sports Night featuring baseball and football movies as well as leading figures in sports, will hold the spotlight at the Blackstone School Hall in the West End, Wednesday night, under the direction of the St. Joseph's Holy Name Society.

Joe Dugan, former Yankee third baseman; Bill Mullen, director of the Boston Park Dept. Athletic Program; Bump Hadley, former Yankee pitcher, and E. A. Soucy, special agent of the Boston F. B. I. office, will join with other celebrities to make the night a memorable one. Anna Mae Murdock and Rita Kenney will contribute to the musical part of the program.

Lagorce Golf Course Sold for Million

MIAMI, Fla., April 2 (AP)—The Lagorce golf course and clubhouse here—site of several big golf tournaments—has been bought by a group of citizens for a year-round private club. The reported price was $1,000,000.

The course, built by Carl G. Fisher on 140 acres reclaimed from Biscayne bay, was opened in 1927.

Bruins Wait Vital Test

By BILL GRIMES

Crossing up all of the Red Wings, from Jolly Jack Adams down to Trainer Honey Walker and more fans than will admit it today, the Bruins came off the ropes last night, took a 5 to 3 decision and sent Series B into the seventh game, which will be played tomorrow night in Detroit.

The Rossmen proved to another capacity house of 13,500 fans that they have what it takes when their backs are against the wall. They had been outlucked in three straight games, all of which they lost 3 to 2. They hadn't won at home against the Red Wings since Dec. 28, 1943.

To further complicate matters, Jud McAtee scored for the Motor City team just 45 seconds after the opening face-off. "There we go," moaned the cash customers. It will be a rout!" And, to be truthful, that was our feeling. We also underestimated the Bruin spirit and determination.

Before the end of the first period Bill Cowley knotted the count. But the Rossmen fell behind again early in the second period, when Joe Carveth, after being allowed to take a full back swing from 15 feet out golfed one into the Boston cage.

The Bruins could have folded early in the second period. But, instead, they went to work on the Wings, after a favorable break, which developed when Ted Lindsay missed connecting with the puck, which was almost in the mouth of an unguarded cage.

That break, apparently, gave the Bruins a new lease of life. They would positively have been dead ducks, if Lindsay had been able to nudge the puck across the line.

Three minutes after Carveth's marker, during a power play, Jack Crawford rifled one from the left wing boards, just inside the blue line. Lumley managed to get his pad on the drive but the rebound went out to Bill Jennings, some ten feet off to the Detroit goalie's left. Bill fussed around with the puck long enough to be knocked silly. Finally, he let fly and the game was tied.

Then, Hal Jackson, who has been charging and barging into Bruins in all six games, took off at Bill Cowley in center ice. The foul was so apparent that Referee Bill Chadwick waved him into the penalty box.

So, there was an opportunity for the Bruins to go into the lead for the first time. Crawford, who played another grand game, raced down with Bill Jennings and Herbie Cain. He gave the puck to Bill, who in turn slipped in Herbie and bang, the Bruins were out in front, 3 to 2.

After that goal, the Bruins started to fly. They skated the Red Wings off their feet. Then, right after half time, the Quebec line went into action. Gino Rozzini and Armand Gaudreault by some clever combination play worked the puck into Detroit territory. "Rosie" spotted Paul Gladu to the left of the Red Wings' cage and slipped a fast diagonal pass, which Paul simply deflected into the strings, for a truly sensational goal.

Then, the Bruins made one of their few mistakes of the games. They elected to try to protect the two-goal lead. They've never been effective playing defensive hockey, and, last night was no exception. McAtee took a pass from Murray Armstrong.

He was allowed to walk down the left wing, without a Bruin laying a stick on him and he wound up by beating Bibeault. However, they managed to hold on to their one goal advantage for the remaining two minutes. Then, at 9:25 in the final period, Bill Cowley connected with a pass out from the corner by Kenny Smith and the Bruins were home.

Bruins Minus Rink For Sixth Cup Final

Pres. Red Dutton of the National Hockey League today announced provisional Stanley Cup championship dates following the Bruins 5 to 3 win over the Red Wings.

If the Wings defeat the Bruins in their seventh and final game in Detroit tomorrow, the first two Cup games will be played in that city on Friday and Sunday. It then will shift to Toronto for two games, April 11 or 12 and April 14. If needed, the fifth game will be played in Detroit April 15, the sixth in Toronto April 17, and the seventh back in Detroit April 19.

The Bruins' Garden rink will be unavailable to them after April 16, due to the coming roller-skate show.

If the Bruins survive, they will open against the Leafs in Toronto on Thursday and Saturday, return to Boston for games April 10 and 12, and if a fifth game is required, it will be played in Toronto April 14.

The Bruins' management was non-commital today about dates or sites for a sixth game.

Sebago Lake Ice Is Out!

AUGUSTA, Me., April 2 (AP)—Sebago Lake was free of ice today, the Fish and Game Department reported.

Floating ice fields which drifted into favored fishing areas the opening day, Sunday, had disappeared.

The first Maine catch of the season reported to the Maine Development Commission was a three and one-quarter-pound landlocked salmon taken from Green lake by Mrs. Frank Cristchley of Green Lake, near Bangor. Officials said they believed it was the earliest date on record that a fish had been taken from that body of water.

Senators' Wounded Vet Steals Show at Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va., April 2 (AP)—Bert R. Shepard, who was shot down over Germany in a P-38 and lost part of his right leg, was cheered to the echo by 8000 servicemen yesterday in his first competitive baseball appearance.

Shepard, fighter pilot on his 34th mission when wounded, took the mound for the Washington Senators in the eighth inning against the Norfolk Naval Training Station nine.

The husky former minor league southpaw pitched hitless ball. He gave up a base on balls and faultlessly fielded a bunt. Lt. "Ace" Parker, former football star, was on third when Shepard retired the sailors runless.

Shepard struck out in the first of the ninth.

The Norfolk team won, 4 to 2, due principally to a lusty triple by catcher Clyde McCullough in the seventh inning with the bases loaded.

Heavies Feature AAU Bouts at Garden

By BILL SMITH

The attention of local fight fans was focused on the heavyweight division as the trials and quarter finals of the National amateur championships got under way at the Boston Garden this afternoon.

Due to the large list of entries, 93, the bouts started at 2 p. m. today and go until 6 o'clock and after a one-hour intermission continue until curfew time.

Tomorrow night the semi-finalists and finalists will hold the spotlight with their efforts to be classed national champions.

Pvt. Ed Wagner, Ft. Devens, has become the darling of Hub fistic followers as a result of his one-sided wins in the New England championships.

Standing 6 feet, 7 inches, weighing 260 and having an 80-inch arm reach, the dusky soldier easily disposed of his three opponents in the recent tournament. He sent each and every one of them down for a knockout.

Wagner is very fast for a big fellow, he's strictly a feinter and counter puncher, but once he lands with either hand, something usually happens.

Five Indians under the direction of Athletic Director Smitty Williams of Anadarko, Oklahoma and coach Frank Kodasset are given a good chance to cop some of the titles.

New England has another good prospect in William Oakes of the Boston Navy Yard in the light heavyweight class and Zep Davis, Quonset sailor, in the middleweights.

Although Davis only had one fight in the New Englands, having drawn a bye in his class, he showed plenty of smooth fighting for an amateur and appeared to have more confidence than the other lads.

It was voted at the N. E. A. A. U. meeting last night, to donate a trophy to the outstanding team. It was the first time such an award has been offered. It will go to the team scoring the highest number of points.

Javery-Andrews Loss Retards Braves

By JOE CASHMAN

WASHINGTON, April 2—The Braves have had glorious wather but little luck training at Georgetown University. fter two weeks, during which they were able to work odoors every day but one, the arriors' hospital list is much nger than it ever was either of te past two springs when they d their pre-season drilling in te indoor cage at Choate School i Wallingford, Ct.

As the Tribe journeys over to Quantico, Va., today to play a Marine nine, seven players are isted as cripples.

Al Javery and Nate Andrews, te outstanding pitchers in camp, have sore arms. So have Bob Brady, promising young catcher, and Tom Nelson, who is slated to be the regular third-sacker.

Outfielder Charlie Workman and catcher Phil Masi each has a lame leg while outfielder Carden Gillenwater is sporting a bandage on his throwing hand as a result of a severe bone bruise.

Needless to say Manager Bob Coleman is concerned no little over the condition of Javery and Andrews. While these two flingers remain hors de combat and Jim Tobin and Red Barrett remain in California, the pilot will be without a pitcher of proven major league calibre. These four accounted for 53 victories last season.

Both Andrews and Javery had X-rays taken of their ailing soupbones over the week end. The pictures showed nothing bent or broken in Nate's wing. The Javery pictures haven't yet been studied. But physicians fear the North Oxford pride has suffered a shoulder injury which may keep him on the sidelines for a couple of weeks more.

The latest report on Nelson, expensive infielder from Milwaukee who hurt his arm the first day out, is encouraging.

Sent to Boston last week to have his teeth examined, the new third sacker was found to have four abscessed molars. He had them extracted and is due back here today.

In the opinion of the dentist, these infected teeth caused the arm trouble and now that they've been removed, Nelson will be o. k. in a matter of days.

Big John Hutchings and little Lefty Wallace are down to face the Leathernecks at Quantico this p. m. . . . The heftiest and lightest of Tribal twirlers are the most advanced members of the staff . . . The 260-pound Hutchings has pitched ten scoreless innings in exhibition competition . . . Dick Culler will replace Whitey Wietelmann as starting shortstop in this game . . . Playing nine innings for the winners as the Yannigans chalked up a 9-6 decision in the Easter Sunday intra-club clash. Dick handled nine chances perfectly . . . Standout of the day was Bill Ramsey, who chipped in with four sharp hits and a brace of circus catches for the losers.

Sinkwich Awarded Joe Carr Trophy

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—Frankie (Fireball) Sinkwich, sparkplug of the Detroit Lions last fall, today was awarded the Joe F. Carr Trophy as the most valuable player in the National Football League in 1944.

Sinkwich beat out Don Hutson, veteran Green Bay end, by two points in the balloting by 17 football writers in the league's 10 cities. Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears won the award last year.

STARTING 'EM YOUNG—Hugh Devore, new head grid coach at Notre Dame, puts his two sons through a bit of T-formation work in their South Orange, N. J., home. Bobby, 5, is centering for quarterback Hugh, Junior, 6.

Classy 10-Milers in Cathedral Affair

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Energetic Tom Haggerty of the Cathedral Club of the South End just missed popping a grand slam in his entry list for the 35th annual 10-mile handicap run to be held over the pavements of South Boston and the South End Saturday afternoon, April 14.

Jumping around the dressing headquarters for the Reddish A. A. Saturday, Manager Haggerty signed all but two of the 31 starters for this return affair.

This activity, together with previous entries that Haggerty had on hand, guarantees a starting field of at least 35 with quite a few favorites still to be heard from. There's still a possibility that Johnnie Kelley, running for the Boston Edison Company, and Louis Young, North Medford, will change their minds and jump into this final tune-up for the big BAA affair.

It's possible that the Cathedral run will bring about the duel between Navy man Charlie Robbins and Coast Guardsman Clayton Farrar that failed to materialize in the Reddish grind. Both will be among the starters and with a test under their belts, they'll be better paced in this renewal.

Robbins found conditions ideal in showing the fans at the Reddish how he captured the national championship at Yonkers, N. Y., last fall. It was cool all the way and if it stays that way for the entire month, the pharmacist mate will be among the top choices in the Patriot's Day 26-miler.

Meanwhile, the Reddish titlist will continue to work out three mornings a week at the Chelsea Naval Hospital. That's all the time he can devote to training and he has to hop out of bed at 5:30 in the morning to get in four and one-half miles. Of course, he has Sunday afternoons to complete his workouts and believe it or not, that's just what he does with his spare time.

This year, Robbins has the incentive to win. He has a two-months-old daughter rooting for him and the veteran Leslie Pawson to cheer him on. It was Pawson who first took the 24-year-old Nutmegger in hand to start him on his winning ways.

Kelley has turned down his entry in the Cathedral because he feels that it's too close to the BAA run . . . Kelley was strong in winning time honors at the Reddish and he wants to win the big one this season . . . he's fed up on second places . . . Tony Madeiros had only an hour and a half sleep before starting the Reddish 10-miler . . . but he still finished fifth . . . Joe Smith, BAA record holder, followed the Reddish run in a car with some Navy mates.

Marty Marion Signs on Line

Marty Marion, ace shortstop of the National League, ended his holdout yesterday by coming to terms with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, according to the Associated Press.

Marion, voted the most valuable player in the senior circuit last year, said he received a substantial salary boost.

Other training camp items:

INDIANS—Outfielder Pat Seerey hit ninth-inning two-run homer to beat Lafayette, Ind., semi-pros, 5-3.

PIRATES—Addition of southpaw Al Gerheauser, traded by Phils for Vince DiMaggio, brings Pirates' pitching staff to 12, not counting Ray Starr, who has not reported.

CUBS—Regulars beat Yanigans, 10-7, in final practice game before meeting Cincinnati Tuesday.

WHITE SOX—Club to play first exhibition game on Wednesday against Detroit Tigers at George Field for benefit of servicemen.

BROWNS—Pitcher Tex Shirley suffered slight attack of lumbago, missed practice.

REDS—took Sunday off.

SENATORS—Lt. Bert Shepard, who lost part of his right leg in combat, pitched one hitless inning in relief for Senators against Norfolk NTS.

GIANTS—Rookie Loren Bain, from Minneapolis, teamed with Bill Voiselle to whip Yankees, 5-1.

DODGERS—Rookie shortstop Tommy Brown helped Dodgers whip Montreal by starting fast doubleplay in ninth that ended game.

Nelson's Win Pool Hits $11,885

DURHAM, N. C., April 2 (AP)—Byron Nelson, the umbrella man from Toledo, is still laying it away for a rainy day.

The tall Texan pocketed $1000 for winning the Durham open golf tournament yesterday, running his winnings for the year to $11,885, his tournament triumphs to three in a row and his season record to seven victories in 16 open meets.

Tracks Push Reopening Plans

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—The sports world felt today that war's worst pinch is just about over and that the long road back to normalcy is stretching out ahead. This feeling resulted from War Mobilizer Byrnes announcement that the ban on horse racing will be lifted on V-E Day. Byrnes' statement was made in his quarterly report to President Roosevelt and Congress.

Sports observers interpreted Byrnes' action to mean that the time is approaching when stringent wartime regulations affecting athletics gradually can be relaxed. Byrnes pointed out that restrictions on travel must remain in effect while the war with Japan continues.

Racing people quickly took steps to be ready to open most tracks after victory in Europe comes.

California, hit hard along with Florida and Louisiana by the Jan. 4 shutdown of the billion-dollar industry, saw moves to have the Santa Anita and Bay Meadows tracks prepared to take full advantage of racing's resumption.

Wilham P. Kyne, general manager of Bay Meadows, said he is opening the track and stable area today. The Los Angeles Turf Club announced it will ask the California Racing Board to permit Santa Anita's reopening shortly after V-E Day.

Santa Anita, first California track to close at war's outbreak, now is in its fifth season of idleness as a racing plant. It has been used as a Japanese evacuee assembly center and Army ordnance training center.

Harry Parr, 3d, of Baltimore, president of the Thoroughbred Racing Ass'ns, and Col. Matt Winn, president of Churchill Downs, at Louisville, Ky., expressed confidence that such major events as the Kentucky Derby and Preakness can be held, although somewhat later than usual.

Pros Too Fast For Bobby Jones

ATLANTA, April 2 (AP)—Bobby Jones, golf's grand slammer, has definitely decided not to play when the touring pros come to his home town Thursday for the $10,000 Iron Lung Tournament. "My game simply does not justify my entrance," said Jones.

SCHOTT BOXES RAMIREZ

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—Unbeaten Freddie Schott of Akron, now fighting out of Paterson, N. J., tries for his 36th consecutive victory tonight against Roberto Ramirez, Mexican heavyweight, in a 10-round feature bout at St. Nick's Arena.

Passing The Puck

By BILL GRIMES

The Bruins will be on their way back to Detroit at 7 o'clock this evening. It will be their third trip in a fortnight to the Motor City. The Red Wings had to hustle to night. And they didn't feel much like hurrying after what the Rossmen did to them.

During the final period, the Red Wings looked and acted as though they had had enough. They are not as rough and tough as we have been led to believe.

Although they figured in only one goal, the Quebec line was great. The return of Gino Rozzini added a dose of needed fight to the Rossmen. The goal scored by Paul Gladu was a masterpiece of team play.

"Squire" Jack Crawford had a night for himself. He assisted on three of the five Boston goals. He tossed a body check at Murray Armstrong early in the first period, and the Red Wing wasn't himself for the rest of the game. Too bad!

Bill Cowley was in a scoring mood. He beat Harry Lumley for the tieing goal in the opening chapter and his third period tally practically assured the victory.

Gov. Maurice J. Tobin lost no time getting to the Bruins' dressing room after the game, to congratulate Manager Art Ross and Coach "Dit" Clapper but he graciously consented delaying his departure long enough to pose for a picture.

Pres. Mervyn "Red" Dutton had a great night. He is Scotch descent. So, he out-fumbled Art Ross for the check for the dinner he was to toss for the scribes. In appreciation of his fast footwork, Pres. Dutton was made a member of the Royal York A. C. and presented with a sweater and also a pen and pencil set, suitably engraved. He's a wonderful character and a great asset to the NHL.

During the last couple of minutes of the game, it was a toss-up who would faint first, Mrs. Harry C. Dodge, the well known golfer, who was seated across the aisle from the penalty box, or Jimmy Bagley, who suffered in the press coop.

George V. Brown, Jr., the big gas and oil man, was to all outward appearance rooting for the Bruins from the minute he came through the press gate. However, much of his enthusiam was displayed because Mrs. George V. Brown, Jr., gave birth to a nine-pound, 11-ounce boy yesterday morning.
